

following diagram for an example as to what information needs to be on the board.

Please use this as a guide if you would like to get started early on your project. Some projects may require more time than others, so if you feel the timeline included with the last Science Fair information is too short please adjust accordingly. Information is also included on my web page if you have further questions. The final due date is February 18th and all are welcome to come to the Fair that afternoon and see all the hard work. As always please let me know if you have any questions about this project. My email is martinellim@academycharter.org
